Introduction

This document has been developed to help professionals and practitioners working in Stockport to assess the level of risk for adults, and to help in deciding when to submit a safeguarding referral to the local authority.

This document should help when responding to concerns of suspected and actual abuse or neglect. It will provide all practitioners and safeguarding managers with a consistent approach, embedding the principles of making safeguarding personal in all organisations. The document has been designed to support the use of professional curiosity at all stages. The examples and definitions used in this document are not exhaustive and will not cover every possible scenario, but have been designed to support people in making an initial assessment about any next steps that need to be taken. If there is any doubt about the seriousness of the concern or the adult at risk, advice and guidance can be sought from individual organisation's designated safeguarding lead.

All safeguarding concerns should be reported to the local authority using the online portal here - Report a concern about abuse of an adult - professionals only - Stockport Council. There may be occasions where services in other local authority areas need to be involved; if this is the case you should first discuss this with the relevant designated safeguarding lead, and relevant advice sought from the local authority.

Where there are concerns about a child or young person under the age of 18, a safeguarding concern should be considered and referred to the local authority here.

How to read our thresholds document

More detailed information on safeguarding adults at risk, as well as detailed definitions of abuse and neglect, can be found in the Stockport Multi-Agency Safeguarding Adults At Risk Policy & Procedure.

1. Assess the adult at risk – using the chart on page 4, are you able to identify the level of severity, any patterns, and the impact on all of those involved?
2. Understand the type of abuse or neglect – using the chart on page 5, can you clearly identify the particular type, or types, of abuse and neglect taking place?

3. Determine the most appropriate response – refer to the chart on page 7 and identify the most appropriate response to the abuse or neglect, bearing in mind any making safeguarding personal outcomes that the adult has expressed. The chart sets out what types of situations can be managed internally (those that are low risk and low impact) and those that should be referred to the local authority.

For any instances where the risk is thought to be medium or high, consider raising a safeguarding concern with the local authority. This should only be done in circumstances where the adult is unable to protect themselves due to any care and support needs.

Working with adults and managing risk

Risk taking is part of daily life and most of us may take risks, in some form, to bring about benefits including to our wellbeing. When working with vulnerable adults it is important to carefully consider the level of risk that an adult may be taking, or exposed to. Staff undertaking risk assessments should be able to evaluate and act upon risk of danger, harm or abuse. Therefore, staff should be able to identify how to reduce or remove risk.

When working with adults to manage risk, the focus should be on how to manage the level of risk, not just describing what the risk is. This can include developing a plan to manage any identified risks and set out actions and measures to address the risk.

Positive risk management needs to be underpinned by widely shared and updated contingency planning for any anticipated adverse eventualities. This includes warning signs that indicate risks are increasing and the point at which they become unacceptable and therefore trigger a review. Effective risk management requires exploration with the adult using a person-centred approach, asking the right questions to build up a full picture. Not all risks will be immediately apparent; therefore, risk assessments need to be regularly updated as part of the safeguarding process and possibly beyond.

Making Safeguarding Personal

Making Safeguarding Personal is key to our approach in Stockport. This means we should keep the adult at the centre of the process as they are the expert in their experience. Having a conversation with the adult at the earliest and most appropriate opportunity means their voice will be front and centre of any risk management or safeguarding plan that is developed.

Some key considerations

There are a number of important points to keep in mind when using this document, and working with adults as part of responding to any safeguarding concern.

- The adult's voice. It is crucial to understand the adult's views and wishes at the earliest opportunity in any safeguarding process. Where safeguarding concerns are raised with the local authority, one of the first actions may well be to contact the adult to get their views so it is always best to consider these yourself first. Placing the adult at the centre of any concern or safeguarding referral will result in a stronger and more meaningful outcome for them.
- Consent. Is the adult aware of the concerns that have been raised? Do they have mental capacity to consent to any support or interventions that may be necessary? If not do you understand how you would override consent when speaking with the local authority?
- Mental capacity. It is important to consider if the adult has the relevant mental capacity to make any decisions that they need to. There is a difference between an adult lacking mental capacity, and making an unwise decision.

"People have the right to make what others might regard as an unwise or unusual decision. Everyone has their own values, beliefs and preferences which may not be the same as those of other people. People cannot be treated as lacking capacity for that reason."

The Care Act 2014 guidance
Care and support statutory guidance - GOV.UK

- Working with the adult. Wherever possible, the adult should be involved at all points of their support. It is possible that the adult may refuse support or particular interventions, and where they have capacity to do so, this should be respected so long as it is safe and there are no inherent risks identified.

Assessing adults at risk

Using the chart below, try and describe the seriousness of the act of abuse or neglect. The further along the scale from low to high, or less serious to more serious, the more at risk the adult is. Safeguarding is everyone's business and all agencies have a responsibility when it comes to adult safeguarding. Further information on provider-led safeguarding enquiries can be found here.

The abusive act	Level of risk or severity			Considerations
	Low	Medium	High
Seriousness of abuse	Unintended action with no lasting impact.	Repeated incidents with some longer-term impact	Potential for criminal or malicious act	Where there are signs of serious and / or repeated abuse, you should seek immediate advice from your agency's safeguarding lead.
Patterns of abuse	Isolated incident or a 'one-off'	Recent abuse in an ongoing relationship	Repeated abuse of the victim
Impact on victim(s)	Little to no impact	Some short-term impact	Serious or long-lasting impact	Remember abuse can affect different people in different ways. The views of the victim will be crucial in understanding impact on them. Are any neighbours, peers or relatives impacted by the situation?
Impact on others	No one else affected or impacted	Others indirectly affected by abuse	Others directly affected by abuse	The principles of a think family approach are important. How has the abuse affected any children, carers, relatives, neighbours?
Intent of alleged perpetrator	Unintended or unplanned incident	Opportunistic activity with some possible intent	Deliberate and/or targeted towards the victim	Think about whether the act is a response to difficulties in caring for the person or if there is deliberate or malicious behaviours involved. Have any professional codes of conduct been breached?
Illegality of actions	Bad practice but not illegal	Criminal act	Serious criminal act	Seek advice from Greater Manchester Police if you are concerned about the possibility of any illegal or criminal activity.
Risk of repeated incident(s)	Unlikely to reoccur	Possible to reoccur	Likely to or is reoccurring	How likely is it that the abuse / neglect will continue or happen again? What actions may be needed to prevent this?

Types of abuse or neglect

The below table sets out some base definitions for different types of abuse or neglect. This section should be read alongside the Stockport Multi-Agency Safeguarding Adults At Risk Policy & Procedure.

Type of abuse or neglect	How it may appear / what we mean
Physical abuse	Any abuse which has a physical impact on an individual. This can be deliberate or accidental. Physical abuse can also be associated with other forms of abuse, such as psychological abuse.
Psychological abuse	Sometimes called emotional abuse . This is abuse that has an adverse effect on an individual's mental well-being. Psychological abuse does not always occur in isolation and can be linked to physical, financial and other forms of abuse or harm.
Neglect & acts of omission	Occurs when a person is harmed, as a result of the failure of a person with the responsibility to provide the amount and type of care that a reasonable person would be expected to provide.
Sexual abuse	Involving people in sexual activity without their voluntary and informed consent and may also include sexual activity where one party is in a position of trust, power or authority. This does not have to be physical contact and can take place online.
Financial or material	Financial abuse is a crime and the police should be involved at an early stage. Financial abuse is the misuse of a person's property, assets, income, funds or any resources.
Discriminatory	Discriminatory abuse exists when values, beliefs and culture result in a misuse of power that denies opportunity to individuals or groups.
Organisational	Organisational (or institutional) abuse can be defined as abuse or mistreatment by a regime as well as by individuals within any health or care setting, or a person's own home.
Domestic abuse	This includes psychological, physical, sexual, financial, emotional abuse, so called 'honour based violence', FGM, forced marriage. It is not only between intimate partners but can include other family members.
Self-neglect	An unwillingness or inability to care for oneself and/or someone's environment. It encompasses a wide range of behaviours
Modern slavery	Encompasses slavery, human trafficking, and forced labour and domestic servitude. Signs of slavery in the UK and elsewhere are often hidden making it hard to recognise victims and potential victims.

Type of abuse or neglect	How it may appear / what we mean
Pressure ulcers	Damage to the skin and tissue when pressure is applied to the same area for a period of time. It is more likely if a person has to stay in a bed or chair for a long time. Sometimes called bedsores or pressure sores .
Slips, trips and falls	The adult experiences injury through a loss of balance or accidental fall.
Medication errors	A patient safety error while prescribing, preparing, dispensing, administering, monitoring or providing advice on any medicines/

Harm Levels

Some agencies in Stockport use our local Harm Levels procedures, which are a mechanism of determining the level of harm an adult may have come to following a particular incident. Your Registered Manager or Safeguarding Lead will know if you are required to report on Harm Levels. More information can be found here.

Any Harm Level investigation that is graded as level 3 or above should always be reported to the local authority as a safeguarding concern.

Harm Level 1	Harm Level 2	Harm Level 3	Harm Level 4	Harm Level 5
A one off incident or isolated of poor practice, or one that causes no harm and no risk of repeat incidents occurring.	Poor quality of care rather than issues of abuse or neglect. Responding to different types of abuse

The chart below sets out some situations that would constitute low, medium, and high levels of risk for different types of abuse or neglect. Where the situation is found to be medium to high risk, consider the adult's ability to protect themselves from the abuse or neglect due to any care and support needs they may have. Where they are thought to be unable to do so, consider making an informed safeguarding referral to the local authority using the online portal Report a concern about abuse of an adult - professionals only - Stockport Council.

Type of abuse	Level of risk – LOW	Level of risk – MEDIUM	Level of risk - HIGH
	Not a safeguarding concern – could be managed internally	Screen for possible safeguarding concern and seek advice from designated safeguarding lead	Refer to local authority and / or other agencies

How to raise a safeguarding concern

Where you have identified a concern that is either amber or red based on your judgement and assessment of the adult's situation, you should consider referring the safeguarding concern to the local authority.

All safeguarding concerns should be raised through the Adult Social Care portal where they will be triaged by the local authority, and any appropriate actions taken. Report a concern about abuse of an adult - professionals only - Stockport Council.
